Please disregard this letter if you are already represented by counsel. According to public records, you were recently involved in a motor vehicle accident. While I do not yet have the full details of your specific situation, I have outlined below a brief summary of the laws that typically govern motor vehicle accident cases in Massachusetts.

Personal Injury Protection (PIP):

Under M.G.L. c. 90, § 34M, you are generally entitled to up to $8,000 in PIP benefits from your own insurance company, regardless of who caused the accident. This coverage helps pay for reasonable medical expenses, 75% of your lost wages, and necessary replacement services (like household help).

Medical Bills:

If you have private health care insurance, Massachusetts Law requires that your medical bills in excess of $2,000.00, be submitted to your private health insurance for payment. If you do not have private health care insurance (i.e. Mass Health/Medicare), or if your health care insurance company refuses to pay your medical bills, you may be entitled to up to $8,000.00, in PIP Medical Coverage.

Lost Wages:

If you lost money because of your inability to work due to your injuries, you may be entitled to collect 75% of your lost wages, based on your Average Weekly Wage, from the PIP Carrier, up to $8,000.00.

Injuries and the "Tort Threshold" for Pain and Suffering:

To pursue a claim for pain and suffering against the at-fault driver, Massachusetts law (M.G.L. c. 231, § 6D) requires that you meet a "tort threshold." This is typically met if your reasonable and necessary medical expenses exceed $2,000, or if your injury involves a bone fracture, permanent disfigurement/scarring, permanent or partial disability, or loss of sight/hearing.

Time Limits to Act:

Generally, you have three years from the date of the accident to file a lawsuit for personal injuries in Massachusetts. However, certain claims may have shorter notice requirements or different contractual deadlines.
